Midsummer Nights Madness Part II

(Volatile State) The Tasco Warehouse, Friday 19th June

Sticky, sticky doughnuts, stick 'em on yer head! Well, we didn't see any doughnuts but there were plenty of smarties and fruit pastels. Were the monkey nuts for the monkies or the mongolian elephant?

Sightings of the South American pygmy goat were few and far between as everybody danced in Mother Bubble to the Wickey-wickey chick chickers such as the Techno kings Loft Groover and Colin Dale. How nice are cottage carrots?

Chalkie White was there disguised as the Invisible Man but respect goes out to MC MC who mashed up the wobbly mashed potato head.

Wallowing in the egg custard were Production House Records with D-M-S and Acer.

Security by R2D2 and C3PO was firm but friendly, although slowed down by a few rusty hinges. Did they think the lazers were Darth Vaders ship landing?

Anyway, Ed the Tortoise scored 10 on the parallel bars but Bob... who? stuck around for a while trying to work out how to get off the velcro wall.

The Klingons were gone and the Vampire was indeed dead, and yes, extortion and corruption, they both had fled.

Next events coming soon and a new weekly Saturday Night club starting in East London.

Shipwrecked

(Pirate Club & Delirium) Roller Express, Edmonton. Saturday 20th June.

With our twelve pieces of gold we purchased a map and set sail for the Roller Express. Once on board the ship's crew were rocking the boat with waves of acid techno and hardcore dance. Hands on decks included Blackbeard AKA Keny Ken, Evil Eddie Richards as The Jolly Roger and Face as the Ship's Doctor, but raising the sails were the Rat Pack and all safely navigated by Captain Hook alias MC Moose. Yes, there was a huge wooden ship in the main dance area, and the venue was divided into three district areas by huge sound curtains and backdrops.

On board entertainment included bumper ships outside, bar fly, pole jousting and best of all a real barge moored on the River Lea outside, with garage sounds and an all night bar, cruising up and down at regular intervals. These attractions were included in the entrance price, making these events different to a regular hardcore rave. To survive in London these days a club must develop its own individual identity (e.g. long running nights such as Rage, Labrynth, Trade) so that members know that they are not going to get the same old thing as every where else. The Pirate Club and Delirium have a good chance of achieving this, especially if they continue their policy of encouraging talented new DJ's to develop their own stable.

TELETHON

Various events are taking place to raise money for this annual appeal. It just shows how far raving has been accepted into the mainstream when there is the possibility that raves could be shown on TV alongside baths of baked beans, sponsored walks and knit-ins! Biggest rave events taking place are the Dance Nation all nighter at Weston Park, Shifnal in Shropshire who offer a major DJ line up, as well as a fashion show and a mellow Mixmag tent. They have a license for 8,000 and hope to be donating £25,000 from the profits to the appeal. Info on 0902 29674. In London, at the Roller Express, Edmonton, Upfront Promotions present Meridian from Noon to Midnight, especially for the under 18's. Top line DJ's, full production, and loads of PA's including Wishdokta, Peter Bouncer and Reel II Reel. The tickets are priced at £10 and all the proceeds are going to Telethon. Phone 0279 413077 or 0831 174620 for your nearest ticket agent.

PROMOTERS BEWARE

If you are asked to collect money for a charity at your club or event, it is worth checking with the Charities Commission that it is a bona fide charity. A particularly nasty scam has been operating recently whereby a group of skanks have persuaded various promoters to collect money for them, but they have been unable to provide either a registration number or even headed notepaper. Don't be caught out, it pays to check up, as collecting for a non-existent cause can reflect very badly on the promoter. The Charities Commission can be contacted on 071-210 3000.

FEEDBACK

Dear Ravescene,
I'm from America but I'm definately not one of those typical Americans. I'm British at heart. I say that because British people know how to have a good time. I moved to London just so I could rave. At home it's crap, no-one ever goes out and it's all attitude and violence. Everything is negative. Unfortunately British immigration want me to go home soon. I'm desperate to stay because I've found complete happiness in raving and have the most beautiful friends from it. I did give up a lot to move over here, family job etc. I'm quite poverty stricken at the moment. By the way I'm not the American girl who wrote in last time. Oh and may I say that the Labrynth crew are the most fun! Amazing sound system, wicked security that have a sense of humour even, happy and very bouncy crowd and the DJ's are blinding. Every weekend mate!

Lynn (Streatham)

Dear Ravescene,

I found your magazine interesting and sad. Interesting to see what goes on for ravers and sad because of your prejudices. You seem to have a real downer on people drinking alcohol. Why? Christ Almighty are you Krishnas or Sally Army heads or something? You know some people in their mid-twenties and above have been raised in an entirely pub based culture, but we're not all lager louts and HM fans.

The Ravescene in the north-east involves a lot of people from Rezerection, Determination Inc, Friday the 13th and Solenoid to name a few getting very rich by playing 'Insanity' to 12 year olds and charging £20 for the measure.

Me? I'm heading back into Reggae and Hip Hop. I wanna use my mind.
Peace
Ian Cusak

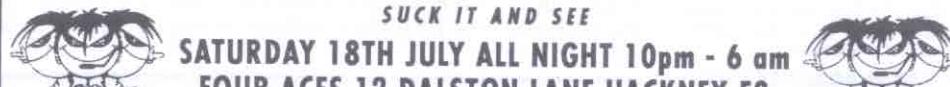

Jo would like to get in touch with Reece from the West Midlands who she met at Fantazia on May 15th. His birthday was on May 30th. Write to us here and we'll forward the letter on.

SLAMMIN' TRAX

PROJECT ONE (Rising High) Don Gargon Comin'

The label that has been nurturing the cream of UK Techno proves they can still pull breakbeat tunes out of the bag. Utilising once again the 8 year old voice of Natasha Williams, check also the deeper 'Can't take the heartbreak' for some audio punishment.

CITADEL OF KAOS (Bombastic Plastic) 4 track

This melting pot of musical mastery present the piano excursion of 'Space Cakes' and 'Shut up and listen' coupled with the take-off bass of E-Z-Man and Narrowboy remix that will be requested for months. An impressive beginning, lets see it continue.

COOL HAND FLEX (Ruff Groove) Lock Me Up Remix

Reworked by the unstoppable talent of Uncle 22, whose formidable style poses a crazy interpretation of the much sought after deleted original, but luck has it, this features on the other side!

VIOLET FORCE (Logic) Planet E

Space age techno offers an inter-galactic message that cannot be explained by mere words, you have to listen. 3 mixes from a German perspective, it's the 'Trance' one that rocks the spaceship most. Watch out for 'Sound Factory – understand this Groove', also on Logic.

TERRORIZE (Hamster Records) Feel the Rhythm

Formularised Techno/piano is sure to cross over to chart success here, with the strength of this predecessor to 'It's Just a Feeling'. This will surely be blessed with (a) Kiss!

ALTERN 8 (Network) Full on; Mask Hysteria

This, the sample crazy collection from the past two years features the best of the Stafford pranksters. Hit after hit permeates from the anonymity of the mask – the featured star of their album cover. Whatever will they do next?

KROME & TIME (Suburban Base) Remixes

Fortunately not a snippet of Children's television, but a rather credible remix that dominates the original. Another feather in the cap for the Boogie boys who keep coming with the D-floor stompers. 'She keeps on Running' on the flip.

EASY MO & ADRIAN AGE (Whodunnit) 4 track

This serves as a distinct sample of what kicks at Labrynth, with the two resident DJ's serving up a platter of Jungle Dub and 89 retrospect. But it has to be 'Take It' that tips the balance.

SATIN STORM (White) Lets Get Together

Phenomenal bassline ensues that will need two sound systems to accomodate this tune that was first heard on the Telepathy ad. Can do nothing but be big! Take time out for SS's other offering 'Give Me What I Need'.

The Bottom Line

There's a rumour around that Liquid E (comes in a small brown bottle) is actually embalming fluid, which is OK if you're dead, but not if you don't want to be. There's no official information on this subject, but we have heard of people who've taken it suffering from dreadful stomach pains the morning after. Best avoided like the plague.

There is a club in London where if you don't fancy the long queue you can slip the door man a fiver to jump in the front. Answers on a postcard please if you know which club it is!

Glastonbury attracted about 80,000 people, the minority of whom were ravers. Little wonder then that if the main event has an anti-rave policy that alternative free festivals are going to take place in the locality to cater for the need.

Erotica members who attend the club on Saturday 18th July same night, but will also be helping to raise money for Telethon. Donations will be given by the light and sound companies, as well as by the promoter. Info on 081-559 9799.

Happening new label Bombastic

Plastic with its first release 'Citadel of Kaos' comprising the talent of Asides, Sub Terra and more is compiling its mailing list. For more info ring 0860 857694. Check out the artwork as well, as it's done by our very own artist Kris.

The rain in Spain falls mainly on the plain, but Raindance are in Marbella sorting out some events. A big shout going out to Steve Jackson and Funki B you owe us a fiver! Mike, we hope your car's OK and Brenda says hi to Colin, Woody and Paul. Chris F fax us to let us know what's going on, Pepe - good time in Belgium. Loft Groover, you were missed in Kent on the 27th, J Jay, Mr Famous, we love you! (and you too Paul). Neil, keep taking the vitamins. Daniel of the Flying Squad, we know what you're up to on Saturday nights. Chrissie, good luck in the new job. Fraser, yes, she promises to phone you soon. Oi, Oi Scott, Dean the raving plumber, we saw you Paing with Jem. Cosmic. Food Junky, flick any more paper and you're dead. Belated birthday greetings to Kirk the MC. Cheer up Patrick and thanks for the video. Sweet Mate, the clubs kicking. Scot & Kerry, enjoy your holiday. Gray, thanks for your help flying last week... Multo Respecto goes out to Carl Cox for proving that British is best at the Serious Beats Weekend in Belgium. He knows the score.

Someone is spreading a rumour that Fantazia's licence for July 25th is in jeopardy. We checked with the promoters as we went to press who said that as far as they are aware the event is still definitely on. If you are in any doubt check with Fantazia on 0242 227311 but as this event promises to be the biggest of this year and not to be missed make arrangements to buy your ticket early.

BOOK TIME

We are publishing our annual which will be out at the end of October. Lots and lots of photos, reviews, articles, interviews etc. The cover price will be under a fiver and for more information, articles for consideration, advertising rates etc., contact us at our usual address.

COMPETITION TIME JUNGLE TEKNO winners last month were Giles Duckett, Sonia Hathaway, Chris B and Theresa Stevens. Sorry if you phoned or wrote and were unlucky, but you have to be quick off the mark! This issue we've two pairs of tickets for RAVE WORLD on July 18th if you can tell us where they held their last event. First correct answers get to go for free, and it should be a good night out if their last events were anything to go by.

Win Tickets for MASHED (VOLATILE STATE) if you can name the artist responsible for the picture on the front of the new flyer. The event will be at the Tasco Warehouse on August 7th. Ticket price is £10 for members and we've got three pairs to give away. The Volatile State crew are also starting a weekly Saturday Nightclub at the Wax with 4 top line and up and coming DJ's every week. Info on the VS clothes line 0279 451084/0831 442070

FREE TICKETS FOR DOUBLE DIPPED which is Ravescene Party VI can also be won, but you're going to have to write in for these. Just tell us why you're the kind of nutty raver that we want at our party and the first 10 letters that make us smile get the tickets!

You can also rave for free at the Illuminate Party hosted by Delirium and the Pirate Club if you turn up in a really bright fluorescent all in one skin tight cat suit and the offer counts for both men and girls. Wonder if any men will dare.... We're told the promoters will be wearing the right outfits to get every one in the mood.
